IMAGINATION LIGHTS & DÉCOR PVT. LTD.

• Their bespoke designs are an outcome of strong collaboration, fine principles and deep artistic understanding of this craft.

• Initially established as an export house, they worked with some prominent international designers around the globe. For past twelve years, they have opened our manufacturing facilities to design lighting solutions and interiors for national five star & heritage hotels, private residences & villas across India.

• They collaborate with famous architects and designers of world-renowned hotel chains and assist them from conception to implementation of a light fixture. In order to remain true to this craft and meet international quality standards they have a team of designers and quality inspectors who meticulously oversee all aspects of production from concept to delivery.

• Their ability to convert custom designs to elegant lights comes from the fact that from melting glass to molding it into shapes and creating intricate brass patterns, everything takes place under one roof.

• Living by this principal, Imagination Light and Décor has been creating unique lighting solutions since 1968. Four decades in family business, the company utilizes age-old art of glass blowing and brass carvings to convert the most intricate drawings into timeless masterpieces of light.

• They have a culture and style of lighting that is traditional yet modern, domestic yet international, detailed yet sophisticated. Their vast collection of light fittings include traditional chandeliers, heritage table lamps, elegant floor lamps, wall sconces, decorative ceiling lights & exterior lanterns.

ROCOCO THEME

• ROCOCO STYLE. Style in interior design, the decorative arts, painting, architecture, and sculpture that originated in Paris in the early 18th century but was soon adopted throughout France and later in other countries, principally Germany and Austria.
• It is characterized by lightness, elegance, and an exuberant use of curving, natural forms in ornamentation.
• The word Rococo is derived from the French word rocaille, which denoted the shell-covered rock work that was used to decorate artificial grottoes.
• Metalwork, porcelain figures and especially furniture rose to new pre-eminence as the French upper classes sought to outfit their homes in the now fashionable style.
• Other elements belonging to the architectural style of Rococo include numerous curves and decorations, as well as the usage of pale colours.
• Rococo is fully in control, sportive, fantastic, and sculptured forms are expressed with abstract ornament using flaming, leafy or shell-like textures in asymmetrical sweeps and flourishes and broken curves;
• Intimate Rococo interiors suppress architectonic divisions of architrave, frieze, and cornice for the picturesque, the curious, and the whimsical, expressed in plastic materials like carved wood and all stucco (as in the work of the Wessobrunner School).
• Walls, ceiling, furniture, and works of metal and porcelain present a unified ensemble. The Rococo palette is softer and paler than the rich primary colors and dark tonalities favored in Baroque tastes.
• Rococo style was best expressed through delicate porcelain sculpture rather than imposing marble statues.
• Other elements belonging to the architectural style of Rococo include numerous curves and decorations, as well as the usage of pale colours.

SPA DESIGN
SPA is a location where mineral-rich spring water (and sometimes sea water) is used to give medicinal baths.

Spa towns or spa resorts (including hot springs resorts) typically offer various health treatments, which are also known as balneotherapy.

The belief in the curative powers of mineral waters goes back to prehistoric times.

Such practices have been popular worldwide, but are especially widespread in Europe and Japan. Day spas are also quite popular, and offer various personal care treatments.

A body treatment, spa treatment, or cosmetic treatment is non-medical procedure to help the health of the body. It is often performed at a resort, destination spa, day spa, beauty salon or school.
Typical treatments include:
- Aromatherapy
- Body wraps, wrapping the body in hot linens, plastic sheets and blankets, or mud wraps,
- often in combination with herbal compounds.
- Massage
- Nail care such as manicures and pedicures
- Waxing, the removal of body hair with hot wax
- Bathing or soaking in any of the following:
  - Artificial waterfall, as cervical (spine) waterfall.
  - Feet bath
  - Hot spring
  - Onsen (Japanese Hot Springs)
  - Thermae (Roman Hot Springs)
  - Hot tub
  - Mud bath
  - Jet hydro massage, as swan-neck jet hydro massage
  - Peat pulp bath
  - Sauna
  - Sensations shower
  - Steam bath
SPA A NECESSITY, NOT LUXURY IN GURGAON

Mrs menu, consulting doctor at four spa, says “our distressing therapies are very popular among our corporate clients. For them, it is not just pampering themselves with a spa treatment, but instead getting relief from their busy office lives. We talk to all our customers and try to understand their work routine and lifestyle and suggest treatments accordingly. The people now know that they need to take care of their bodies because they are constantly exhausted and need this form of a break to avoid burning out”. A spa visit is not an occasional indulge but a part of their regular routines.

“we talk to our customers and try to understand their work routine as well as their lifestyle and suggest treatments accordingly”

- Washrooms should be there.
1) Communicating with the customers

Regular interaction with your customers is a must in today’s business world. If they feel that you are communicating with them openly, they will also believe that their relationship with your company is one of mutual trust.

2) Prompt service

We live in speed century, and almost nobody has time today. The customer expects a prompt service, therefore when asking for service help; he should never have to make a second call. Emphasize quality and set internal deadlines for accomplishing tasks timely and efficiently as a standard service. Ensure that these standards are well understood by the employees and promoted to customers.

6) Ensure that your customers are well informed about your value proposition

When the customer has made a purchase, let him know about the whole package of services that comes with the sale. Let him know about what you can offer him after the purchase, instead of letting him come back and ask for support.
